Double Event For Michael

Valentine And Birth Days

Tuesday will have double significance for Michael Pelley, who is in City Hospital for more skin grafts for burns received nearly a year ago.
Not only will it be Valentine Day, but his 10th birthday anniversary, and he is looking ahead to receiving an avalanche of cards.
Michael, shown with his teddy bear gift from Christmas, displays a valentine received early.
Son of Mrs. Beverly Curtis of M. C. Route 22, near Westfield Rd., he has spent considerable time in the hospital for burns received last April 18, the day after Easter.
He has had skin grafted to areas on the front and back of his right leg in recent months and still has to have more grafted on his left leg.

His mother had gone to the grocery store when he decided to burn brush on the hillside near their home. He received his burns when kerosene, accidentally spilled on his pants, ignited.
He was in the hospital until about August, then went home for awhile. He returned to the hospital about the first week of October to have skin grafted in November. He was home for only a couple days at Christmas.

He missed the six weeks of school last spring but has had a tutor since November.
A fourth grade student at Westgate, he receives tutoring from 4 to 5 p. m. each school day at the hospital by a Westgate teacher. He is "bright" and does well in his school work, Mrs. Curtis said.
He has a brother and two sisters. The family moved to their present home from Salem about a year and a half ago. Mrs. Curtis is originally from East Liverpool.
She said persons and groups have been kind while Michael convalesces.

Reports Escape Car Found

Katanga Denies 'Faking' Story Of Lumumba Escape

ELISABETHVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Katanga Province officials today flatly denied rumors they concocted a story that ex-Premier Patrice Lumumba escaped from jail, so they could cover his death at the hands of his political foes.
The denial came in a communique announcing that searchers for the missing Lumumba had found a car and two political associates used to escape from a farmhouse prison at Mutshatsa, 220 miles west of Elisabethville, late Thursday night.
Some Western observers in the Congo said they suspect Lumumba is dead or that his escape was engineered so he could be shot while trying to escape.
The Katanga government, taking note of these rumors, said in a communique: "The Katanga government denies it organized the escape. It appears his (Lumumba's) escape was made possible by some fault or intervention by his guards, and this will be subject to inquiry."

The communique said the car, a black Ford sedan found about 20 miles north of Kasaji where Lumumba was imprisoned, was identified as the automobile he and his companions seized after overpowering their guards.
Western observers fear that, dead or alive, Lumumba presents the Congo with its greatest threat of all-out civil war. His supporters control about one-third of the Congo, and in the past his fiery oratory has been capable of whipping them to a frenzy.
If Lumumba is dead, observers said, his supporters in Oriental and Kivu provinces almost certainly would embark on a path of vengeance, possibly against the white population.
If he is alive, they said, he will be able to assume active leadership of his followers and touch off an all-out major civil war.
The Katanga government communique said the escape car which searchers found "was started by unscrewing the ignition lock and joining the ignition wires together."

"There was no sign that the occupants of car (found damaged on the road) had been hurt in the crash, and all traces of their movements after leaving the damaged car had been obliterated by rain and people passing the spot afterwards."
The feeling here that Lumumba was already dead was strengthened among observers.
President Moise Tshombe of Katanga has shown no inclination to take personal immediate action about the case, or even to comment on it.
Newsmen asked a government spokesman to get some sort of reaction from Tshombe, but they were told "the president is busy with the visit of President Yulu of the Republic of Congo (French) and doesn't feel Lumumba's escape justifies comments. It is not important enough."

Barron Charts Program

5,000 Of West Virginia's Unemployed Due For Jobs

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—Gov. Barron has outlined the initial steps of his public works program designed to put some of West Virginia's jobless residents back to work.
At a news conference Friday, Barron said the first 536 men to be employed under the program will be put to work Tuesday on road and conservation projects. About 2,000 more will be given jobs in the following few days. When the program gets into full swing, Barron said, about 5,000 men will be employed.
He estimated that figuring the average family at four persons, this would mean economic relief for 20,000 West Virginians.
Fifteen counties will be involved in the first phase of the program. They are: McDowell, Mingo, Webster, Lincoln, Logan, Fayette, Wyoming, Boone, Clay, Barbour, Summers, Braxton, Raleigh, Calhoun and Pendleton.

Dana M. Hicks, the Barron program coordinator said that in each of those counties, at least 20 per cent of the population is eligible for surplus food commodities.
The program, Hicks said, will be extended later to Wayne, Putnam, Mason, Wirt, Roane, Nicholas, Greenbrier, Mercer, Pocahontas, Randolph, Upshur, Gilmer, Doddridge, Preston, Grant, Hardy and Hampshire counties.
"About three-fourths of those going to work Tuesday will be on road projects," Hicks said. The remainder will work on conservation projects.
The program will be financed by revenue derived from a temporary penny increase in the consumers sales tax and a personal income tax. Both measures have

Labor Chief Warns About Depression

Goldberg On Tour Seeking Support For Recovery Program

DETROIT (AP) — Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg brought to hard-hit Michigan today his pilgrimage to drum up countrywide support for President Kennedy's economic recovery program.
Goldberg said the nation is already in a full-fledged recession and "if we don't take proper action soon we'll be in a real depression."
The labor secretary has been touring depressed areas in Illinois, Indiana and now Michigan and planned to go later today to Columbus, Ohio, and Pittsburgh. At each stop he interviews idled workers and their families, and confers with political, business and labor leaders.
Goldberg, a former AFL-CIO counsel, found himself in a mild quarrel with a onetime union colleague, Walter Reuther, head of the Auto Workers Union. Reuther was among the union and auto industry figures with whom Kennedy's unemployment area emissary was to meet here today.
Reuther told a congressional committee in Washington Thursday he doubted that Kennedy's economic aid program goes far enough and that a Kennedy proposal to give business tax incentives was especially unnecessary and unwise.
Goldberg, asked at Lansing, Mich., Friday night about Reuther's position on the Kennedy tax proposal, replied with a smile that "I agree with my President (Kennedy) and, in this case, not with (union) President Reuther."

'Next Move' Studied By Republicans

One Job Abolished; 5 Democrats Still Reporting For Work

LISBON — Columbiana County commissioners and Prosecutor G. William Brokaw are studying the next move in the "double personnel" situation at the Courthouse where five Democrat - appointed workers continue to report while pay authorization for four new Republican appointees has been rejected by state officials.
The Ohio Department of Personnel turned down payroll authorization for four of the new employees, and a letter from the Columbus office is expected to explain the reason, which so far has not been divulged.

The Republican - dominated Board of Commissioners has stated the position of Harold Deidrick of Lisbon R. D. 1, maintenance man, has been abolished and no one was hired in his place.
Meanwhile, Deidrick along with four women who served under the Democrat commissioners have continued to report for work at the Courthouse since Feb. 1 — the effective date of their original dismissal.

They are Mrs. Jane Case of Columbiana, switchboard operator; Mrs. Ruth Wining of Columbiana, assistant operator and clerk in the dog warden's office; Miss Patricia Barborak of West Point, photostat operator, and Mrs. Camilla Smith of Wellsville, microfilm operator.
The five have retained attorneys in their claim that they are on Civil Service status, and cannot be summarily discharged without a competitive examination for appointment to their jobs.
Another post "abolished" by the commissioners was the position of assistant clerk — formerly held by Miss Sandra Shaw of Lisbon. The post of purchasing agent was created in the commissioners' office and filled by Jack Johnston of East Liverpool, former deputy under ex-GOP auditor I. J. Vordran. Johnston is apparently performing the duties of the previous assistant clerk, and the commissioners indicated this week no new

Slick Streets Blamed In City Auto Collision

Lisbon Man's Car Damaged Heavily At Dresden And 9th

Slick streets were blamed for a crash early this morning that caused extensive damage to a Lisbon man's auto, police reported.
The collision about 6 a. m. at Dresden Ave. and W. 9th St. involved cars driven by Robert Grim of East Palestine R. D. 1 and Herman E. Hale, 414 E. Chestnut St., Lisbon.
Hale said he had halted for the traffic signal but Grim was unable to stop because of the icy street. The mishap caused heavy damage to the rear end of Hale's 1955 sedan and to the right fender of Grim's 1960 auto, police said.
About $50 damage was caused to the rear of a 1961 pickup truck Friday afternoon at Dresden Ave. and W. 8th St., William Rager, 19, of the YMCA, driver, told police.
Rager said he was approaching the intersection in the truck, owned by the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., when an unidentified driver pulled from W. 8th St. into his path.
He said he was able to stop quickly but the truck was hit in the rear by a car operated by Jack Craddock of Pittsburgh, local radio announcer.
Police said the accident report still is incomplete pending Craddock's version. Craddock told Rager he was hurrying to City Hospital.

Bar Burglary Nets Whisky, Pistol, Change

Charge d'Affaires Delivers Apology To High Red Official

Burglars ransacked the Oasis Cafe, 311 Market St., sometime between Thursday night and early Friday afternoon, taking six fifths of whisky and a .22 caliber target pistol and rifling two coin-operated machines of an undetermined amount of change, police reported. Another entry was reported yesterday.
The burglary was discovered at 12:30 p. m. yesterday. Officers said the intruders forced open and looted the coin boxes of a music machine and a shuffle bowling alley.
Dale Nohe of Chester is the manager and John Mullen of Grandview Ave. is the owner.
Entrance was gained by boring a series of five-eighths-inch holes in a rear door, then lifting out the section of wood, police said. The intruders then reached through the opening to remove a 2-x-2-inch wooden bar holding the door.
The burglars entered a rear storage room which opens into the bar-room proper via an archway. The shuffle alley is located in the back room, with the front of the board near the archway.
A tool similar to a screwdriver apparently was used to jimmy the two coin machines, police said. The .22-caliber pistol, a Colt Woodsman, was taken from one of a series of cupboards and drawers that was ransacked. The coin box of the music machine was found in the back room. The machines are owned by Hune, Inc.
Nohe fixed the value of the stolen whisky at approximately $30. The intruder did not disturb money left in the cash register by the proprietor, although it was unlocked, police said. The intruder apparently left via the rear door. Patrolman W. E. McDaniel investigated.
A transistor radio was stolen from the Iron City Distributing Co. on Market St. late Thursday or early yesterday, police were notified late yesterday afternoon.
C. H. Christ, manager, said he discovered the burglary about 3 p. m. yesterday.
Christ told police an employee, Richard Sperry, opened the business at 7:10 a. m. and he arrived about 10:30, but did not go to the upstairs section until yesterday afternoon when he noticed the radio was missing.
Police said the thief climbed a steel wire fence at the side of the building and then used empty beer kegs to climb to the platform roof and break a glass pane to gain entrance.

France Hopes Plane Regrets Calm Soviets

Charge d'Affaires Delivers Apology To High Red Official

PARIS (AP)—France hoped today its formal expression of regrets would calm Soviet tempers over a French jet fighter that fired tracer shots across the nose of a plane carrying Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev.
France's charge d'affaires in Moscow, Jean de la Grandville, visited the Soviet Foreign Ministry Friday night to deliver an apology — apparently ordered by President Charles de Gaulle himself—for the interception off Algeria's Mediterranean coast Thursday.
In Moscow today, there was no outward indication Soviet officialdom would make a great affair of the incident despite almost unprecedented bitter reaction from the Soviet man-on-the-street.
The Soviet Communist party official newspaper Pravda called the interception "a regrettable incident."
When the news first reached Moscow, Soviet citizens displayed anger greater even than that shown during the American U2 spy plane incident or the landing of U.S. Marines in Lebanon.
The French Foreign Ministry said De la Grandville at his own request met with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko for a half-hour and promised a full investigation.
Reports received so far are incomplete, the French said, but De la Grandville "expressed, here and now, in any case, the sincere regrets of the French government."
The French said they have determined, however, that the Soviet pilot strayed from his flight plan and veered southward into France's "zone of responsibility."

Another $100 Stolen Here By Pickpocket

A second woman shopper's wallet containing slightly more than $100 was stolen Thursday afternoon by a smooth-working pickpocket who took the trouble to close her purse, police were notified Friday afternoon.
Mrs. Helen Coffman, 246 W. 5th St., told police she was shopping in McCrory's 5-and-10 late Thursday afternoon and discovered the theft when she went to make a purchase.
Mrs. Coffman said her purse was hanging from her arm but it was closed when she found the wallet had been taken. Wearing a heavy coat, she said she didn't feel anyone bump her, a traditional method of pickpockets to divert attention.
The only possible suspect Mrs. Coffman said she could recall was a woman who entered a side door while she was looking at cards. The woman picked a card from the top rack, glanced at it and then left immediately by the same door, Mrs. Coffman said.
The widow said she had cashed a salary check and an unemployment check just about an hour before the cash was stolen. She checked immediately with the store office and later was advised to notify police.
Mrs. Frieda Skvarka, 961 W. 8th St., had reported to police Thursday her wallet containing at least $100 was lifted from her purse while she was shopping in the D. M. Ogilvie & Co. store.
Mrs. Skvarka's wallet was stolen about 10 minutes before Mrs. Coffman's was taken, police said.

Safety-Service Director Lee Copenhaver said the crews were working in the East End area today, but expected to resume work this afternoon on the heavy ice in Diamond Alley.

'Work Or Jail' Orders Given Man On Relief

A husky West End man Friday afternoon was given the alternative of working out relief orders furnished his family of six or spending 30 days in the County Jail.

Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff gave the alternatives, plus other probation terms, to George Webber of Claiborne St., who was haled into court on a non-support charge filed by his wife, Mrs. Marie Webber. The affidavit alleged Webber has failed to support his five children, ranging in age from 1 to 9.

Mrs. Webber told the judge the city relief department shut off the family's aid because her husband refused to work as a way of repayment. The family received orders for $40 and $35 for groceries, but her husband refused to "work them out," she said.

Questioned by the judge, Webber said 32 hours' work would be required in repayment of the $40 order. Mrs. Webber said another order which the family received in June 1960 also has not been worked out.

"With the children at home I can't take a job, but I hate to hear the baby cry because he doesn't have any milk," she told the judge.

The judge commented that he had heard Webber has been spending his evenings in taverns and boasting to his friends that he would not work out the relief orders. Webber denied the reports. He admitted frequenting taverns, but said he was not spending public assistance money for drinks.

"You're not man enough to work out the orders," the judge told Webber. He also castigated the father for being "too lazy" to work in return for the aid. Sentencing him to 30 days in jail, he ordered the term suspended on four conditions. He ordered that Webber:

Work out all his relief orders, refrain from frequenting taverns as long as he is unemployed, spend his evenings at home, and obey all the laws of the city.

$400 Vanishes At Meat Market

Wellsville police today were checking a report that the Thrifty Meat Market, 556 Main St., was broken into sometime early this morning.

Police said the owner reported that about $400, about half of it cash and the remainder checks, was stolen along with some pork roasts and veal steaks.

Capt. Pete Trainer said he was halted about 8 a. m. by a bakery truck driver who said he found the front door open when he stopped at the store to make a delivery.

Trainer said he checked and found the door standing open. Upon entering, he found one of the employees of the market asleep on a cot behind a cooler.

Trainer said he woke the man and asked if anything was missing and was told everything was all right.

About 9:30 a. m., one of the owners called and reported the loss of the money and meat.

Trainer said he was on duty last night and had checked the store at 4 a. m. and that the front door was closed then.

Trainer said there were no signs of forcible entry and if a thief did enter the store, he went through the front door and left the same way.

A Tribute To Our Boy Scouts

When Lord Robert Baden-Powell, the Englishman, conceived the idea of Boy Scouts and later our American, Dan Beard, furthered and promoted the idea here, neither, we suspect, ever dreamed what world wide fountains of Youth he was putting in action! Today the Boy Scouts are the flower of young manhood in every quarter of the globe. Their deeds are legion. Their clean, manly characters shine forth from their scrubbed faces and the trim uniforms they wear. How very proud we fathers and mothers of Boy Scouts should be! Their merit badges are a symbol of sincerity, eagerness to serve and pride in their organization. God bless them all. They'll be leaders tomorrow!

THEY GREW HAIR

Staff Director Shows How to Save Hair and Stimulate Hair Growth

Mr. Melton's complete recovery from hair loss is typical of the results possible thru Erickson's modern methods.

Mrs. Barnes, the same as any woman, is proud of this lovely hair which was restored thru a prompt application by the famous Erickson methods.

They gave only 20 minutes of their time for a FREE consultation with the Erickson representative and re-grew their hair in only a few months with the exclusive Erickson home treatment. Neither have male pattern baldness.

Are You In The DARK About Hair Problems

No need to be in dark, it's really very simple. YOUR HAIR WANTS TO GROW.

Now in its eighth year, Erickson Hair and Scalp Specialists have had the proven treatment which checks dandruff, scalp itch and makes conditions right for hair growth so that hair, by the positive laws of nature, has to grow better.

Sunday, February 12, at the Travelers Hotel in East Liverpool, Staff Director R. J. Webber will personally and privately give free hair and scalp consultations between 1 P. M. and 8:30 P. M. to men and women.

WHAT CAUSES HAIR LOSS There are several scalp disorders that can cause hair loss and baldness. The great majority of cases of excessive hair fall and baldness are the beginning and more fully developed stages of male pattern baldness which cannot be helped by any known treatment.

But how can any man or woman be sure what is actually causing their hair loss? Even if baldness may seem to "run in the family", this is certainly no proof of the cause of your hair loss. No matter

-And So Time Passed

It was a gray day early in January when an elderly man came in to ask the editor to look at a manuscript: "I Visit the Lincoln Memorial."

The writing was one of those labors of love that Americans have been performing for Abraham Lincoln down through the years. The material was well organized. It was a heartfelt tribute to a great American by one of millions whose hearts have been stirred by Lincoln's rise to greatness from circumstances humbler than their own.

AFTER RECITING some statistics about the Lincoln Memorial, itself, Lincoln's presidency and the circumstances of his administration, the writer said this:

"And so time passed. The tall frame became more gaunt and bent, the lines in the melancholy features more prominent and deeper from anxiety and care; more in conformity to the face we, today, know and love. In the march of time, the greatness of this man became manifest, scorn and derision changing to respect and admiration. His many acts of kindness in mitigation, sometimes in absolute pardon, of military offenses, his leniency toward those in rebellion against the Union — harshly criticized by some — endeared him to the majority of the people who hailed him as the savior of the Union and of our national honor."

The manuscript was kept so this passage could be quoted on the anniversary of Abraham Lincoln's birthday. Its writer had no pride of authorship. He wanted only to pay tribute to Abraham Lincoln.

LAST SPRING, the editor had revisited the Lincoln Memorial. It was a beautiful April day. Hundreds of school children were on the steps of the memorial. Dozens were in the rotunda.

They and all the adults who came and went had the same reaction when they looked at the towering figure of Abraham Lincoln. They were silent. They stood in reverence before the great statue by Daniel Chester French.

No one standing there and watching this happen can help but believe here is the proof of what America is — a land where Abraham Lincoln is the most revered of all American leaders.

He saved the Union by skill and determination. By love, he saved America.

Robert Weaver Has The Chance

The Senate Banking Committee has approved the nomination of Robert C. Weaver to be federal housing administrator by an 11-4 vote.

If the Senate follows the committee's recommendation, Mr. Weaver will become the highest Negro official in the history of the federal government. It is possible he might be elevated to Cabinet status under authority given President Kennedy to create new Cabinet positions. Housing has been discussed as one of the possible new posts, along with urban affairs.

Mr. Weaver has the chance to do for his race in the affairs of government what other Negroes have been doing in the arts and in athletics.

He was appointed because he is an expert in his field. To be sure, President Kennedy took into consideration that he was a Negro, but that was not the primary consideration.

The great Negro baseball players and football players, the great Negro runners and jumpers who keep the United States in Olympic competition, the great Negro entertainers are where they are because they are outstanding — not because they are Negroes.

This has been the break-through for improvement of the Negro's status in the United States. It is certain to continue and to spread out into places where Negroes have been rare exceptions, such as sciences and languages.

It is the long-term solution to the problem of segregation, as every thoughtful Negro knows it must be. When Negroes like Robert C. Weaver become as commonplace as Negro athletes, no one will think anything about it when a member of the race attains a high post in government.

When that happens, the Negro race will have been assimilated in the only way it wants to be assimilated — into the culture of the society that brought Negroes to the United States as slaves.

Slush In Your Eye

Motorists aren't the only persons having their troubles with the bad weather.

Pedestrians have problems, too. In their case, it's the slush.

When a speeding car and a layer of dirty snow, ice and water get together almost anything can happen to an unsuspecting pedestrian. Hats, coats, trousers, hose all become targets for the flying mess.

The results often are effective to the point that they leave a cursing, fist-shaking pedestrian with one thought in mind — to get even with that blankety-blank car which did the dirty work. The pedestrian, however, is at a disadvantage and must be ever alert — or suffer the consequences.

Thoughtful motorists could help considerably by reducing their speed when they travel streets oozing with slush and running water.

Missile Gap Is Indeterminate

The Kennedy administration admits it is uncertain about the existence of a missile gap, if there is one, and the size of the gap if one exists. It is depending on its own studies to pin down reliable information on the matter.

A missile gap was blown up into an issue in the presidential campaign, due in some part to the fixation in the mind of Sen. Symington, the Missouri Democrat, who had made this his special concern.

But a missile gap is an indeterminate condition. No one knows how many missiles the Soviet Union has, or what its missiles can do. A few years ago, there was said to be a heavy-bomber gap. At one time, during the Korean War, there was a heavy-tank gap.

In the early part of World War II, there was an airplane gap that ironically made subsequent U.S. airplane production the deciding factor in aerial warfare. Japan and Germany were committed to designs already in production, but the United States was able to put into production new designs that proved superior.

In all preparations for war there is the problem of becoming over-committed to weapons systems that may be superseded by newer and better systems. This is the danger the United States, itself, must be concerned about with missile preparations. It could become so over-committed to missiles that it would be embarrassed if an enemy chose not to fight a missile war but to depend on infantry, artillery and tanks, as the Communists did in Korea, thus neutralizing atomic striking power and strategic bombing.

The United States often has been disconcerted by claims of weakness relative to other powers. It has had Navy gaps, Army gaps, aviation gaps and now it is concerned with a possible missile gap. Its concern is justified. What is not always justified are hysterical claims that it has not kept pace with some other power, on the basis of assumptions that have not been thought out carefully and which frequently are in gross error.

The Once Over

One "industry" knowing no recession is horse racing. The public has not stopped buying hunches, dreams, hallucinations and bad information.

It isn't even necessary for tracks to improve the package, have horse racing endorsed as tonics by men in white coats or make with commercial "No money down!"

You never hear the customers saying, "I don't like the trend economically." "I am deferring activities until the situation clears" or "Thanks for the information but I want to see how the economic council views the situation."

There is no record at any track of a horse player declaring "They've got to cut the price of $2 tickets. He never hesitates at a mutuels window to figure out if wrong tips are in oversupply or if the touts have inventory trouble.

Even after losing seven straight races he doesn't hole up and announce that "venture capital" has dried up or that playing the skimmers is dead unless Congress cuts taxes, passes a law for control of betting-odds and sees that racing addicts thrown out of lucky breaks get 32 weeks security payments and Federal horse-tips.

Our mutuels window economy is growing. I predict that in ten years there will be a fifty per cent increase in windows and a prosperity in which a man can afford to buy twice as many tickets as now.

Tracks are in an expansion era. Before long there will be a dream track with three races going on at once and electronic devices for destroying losing tickets and saving better from tearing them up. Forward in the true American spirit of daring!

GOV. ROCKEFELLER's son was fined $45 for speeding. What made the court think he could afford it?

Castro has fired high court judges. It seems they insisted a man was innocent until proved guilty.

David Merrick, who has five Broadway hits running at same time, is accused of being vain and arrogant but on the Mike Wallace show he seemed placid and modest guy. Asked if he thought himself extra smart as a show picker he replied, "No. I have a certain instinct but expect to run into streak of bad luck, like everybody else in show business."

President Kennedy will address U.N. Assembly. The rule against candel and straight talk will be suspended in his case, we take it.

Good name is wanted for Gotham's new National League ball club. This column thinks name should have a New York flavor, straight out of "East Side, West Side, all around the town, the kids play ring-a-rosy, London Bridge is falling down. Boys and girls together, me and Mamie O'Rourke; we trip the light fantastic on the sidewalks of New York." How about "The Dancers"? They might wait in.

First man to drive a car 100 miles an hour was the Frenchman, M. Rigolvy, who on July 21, 1904, in a four-cylinder, angular-bodied Gobron-Brille, averaged 103.56 miles per hour for one kilometer along a dusty road near Ostend, Belgium.

The only two nations in the Western Hemisphere which do not border on the sea are Bolivia and Paraguay, both in South America.

The Power Of Faith

by Howard Brodie

Abraham Lincoln was strengthened by his faith. He believed: "The will of God prevails. Without Him all human reliance is vain. Without the assistance of that Divine Being I can not succeed. With that assistance I can not fail. . . . Being a humble instrument in the hands of our Heavenly Father, I desire that all my works and acts may be according to His will; and that it may be so, I give thanks to the Almighty, and seek His aid. . . . I have a solemn oath registered in Heaven to finish the work I am in, in full view of my responsibility to my God, with malice toward none; with charity toward all; with firmness in the right as God gives me to see the right."

Labor Starts 1961 Vote Campaign

By Victor Riesel

This is the era of the banquet blues sung by those who have dais trouble. And not the least of those who have been moaning low are the veterans of the New York Democratic party who had a speaker's table to fill for a Lincoln's Day eve "victory" dinner. They had invited the President of the U.S. early in the year — they had hoped that if he could not come, he would at least ask a brother or other intimate to sit in as a sign of political approval.

But official word from the White House was late in coming. There is another banquet scheduled for Feb. 18, also in New York. This one is the Liberal party's victory celebration and testimonial to Labor Secretary Arthur Goldberg.

No banquet blues here. No dais trouble. On it will be Attorney General Robert Kennedy, in all his symbolism. He was invited early in the year. He accepted early.

THE LIBERAL PARTY easily is labor's most successful contribution to all the Democratic party's campaign wars and battle cries, from the New Deal to the New Frontier.

Personified it is the hatters' Alex Rose who turned Jim Farleyism into a new political art. Of course, the Liberal party is also Dave Dubinsky, whose mammoth garment center rally marked the spot from which John Kennedy kicked the few extra points he needed to win the big game.

The story of these two banquets is the story of things to come on the New Frontier. Never have labor leaders been so sophisticated and expertly active around the clock and around the year.

They have already alerted thousands of their branches, not only in New York, but in the South especially, to swing into the 1961 election drives. Now, not manana.

It may suddenly dawn on others what the labor leaders know so well: There are important elections this year in more than 700 cities with a population of 10,000 or more. These include six of the nation's largest cities, such as New York, Birmingham, Atlanta, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Dayton, Des Moines, Detroit, Hartford, Houston, Jersey City, Los Angeles, Louisville, Miami, Minneapolis, New Haven, Omaha, Phoenix, Pittsburgh, Rockford, St. Louis, Salt Lake City and San Francisco.

THEY MAY be an "off year" to some, but not to labor's national political machine known as the Committee on Political Education (COPE).

Its leaders have drawn up a report for the national AFL-CIO Executive Council which meets in its mid-winter Miami Beach session beginning Feb. 20. In essence this report, which will be submitted by COPE director Jim McDevitt, will talk of the opportunities to bring in regional victories now that a friend is in the White House.

COPE will campaign on the practical political truism that no office is too small to win and hold in 1961, because the '62 congressional and gubernatorial elections are around the corner. These include the expiration of Pat Brown's term in California and Nelson Rockefeller's in New York. From there you can practically see 1964.

COPE REPORTS: "In addition, Kentucky, Michigan, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Virginia and Wisconsin will hold regular elections for state offices (in 1961) that vary from state to state. "Illinois will hold elections for county commissioners. Municipal elections will be held in every state except Delaware, Hawaii, Indiana and Oregon."

"Getting good men elected to City Council or an elective municipal agency requires the same type of educational registration and get-out-the-vote work as does electing U.S. senators and representatives. And their actions often have a more immediate effect upon the lives of the citizens than does a bill passed through Congress. . . . What the City Council does . . . will have an immediate and direct impact on trade union members."

In the South COPE told its people to prepare for earlier action than in the snow belt. COPE sent a message which said that, "Nearly all political contests in the South are decided not by the November general elections, but by Democratic primary elections held from late winter and early spring through the summer."

"COPE urged advance preparation." So watched the banquets of the future. By men's places on the dais, ye shall know their politics.

Kennedy Faces Test

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

President Kennedy faces a two-headed test of his leadership: Action and imagination.

Action in his case, at home and abroad, means more than proposals. He's made a lot already. It means a follow-through to make them a reality.

For example, in dealing with Congress and the Russians. He can offer Congress programs but unless he pressures it to do something about them he'll wind up empty-handed.

True, he started under a handicap: By just squeaking through in the 1960 election he can't claim overwhelming endorsement for what he stood for.

What he stands for, according to the proposals made so far, is a little more liberal than conservative, but only mildly so.

But Congress, even though his Democrats outnumber the Republicans 65 to 35 in the Senate and 262 to 175 in the House, is dominantly conservative.

The result: In his first test with Congress, just as in the election, he barely managed to win. This was his fight on the House Rules Committee.

For years its conservative Republican and Southern Democratic members, by teaming up, could block liberal legislation from going to the House for a vote.

Kennedy sought to get the House to add a few more members to the committee to overcome the conservative coalition.

He and his aides pressured House members to go along with him. In the final count he won by only five votes out of 429 cast.

It's good evidence he will have to fight every foot of the way to get what he wants from Congress.

Both action and imagination will be needed in foreign affairs. He himself has expressed urgency in this field.

For example: His statement that "the news will be worse before it gets better." He also said in the campaign: "Peace requires more than talk."

Kennedy has taken over in a peculiar, almost frozen, period of American history. American foreign policy has been fixed and frozen for years.

President Truman laid it down: Foreign aid and military alliances around the world to keep communism back. President Eisenhower followed this down the line.

He made no basic change in Truman's policy. Perhaps Kennedy won't, or won't be able to, either.

Reduced to its simple elements the Truman-Eisenhower policy has been a holding operation. But it hasn't held.

The Communists are pushing in Asia. The Russians have leaptfrogged over American defenses and alliances to do their work in Africa.

Most daring of all the Communists have penetrated the Western Hemisphere: In Cuba and other parts of Latin America. There's no sign of an end to it.

The Truman-Eisenhower holding policy can be made flexible. But it has no sense of movement.

Kennedy's test will come in continuing to hold the line against communism while devising means to avoid war and perhaps even outscore communism.

This will require first class imagination. Kennedy is conscious of this. And probably here is the best evidence up to now that he is conscious of the test.

His unwillingness to say much about foreign policy, disarmament, or relations with Russia until he and his aides can study their problems.

In the end he may find new approaches through imagination. It will still come to nothing without follow-through action to win support at home and among allies.

All that he's said and done so far is the barest kind of preliminary to what he must do if he is to provide the kind of leadership he talked of giving.

An Inspiring Event

By David Lawrence

Presidential Prayer Breakfast Is Held

Something truly inspiring happened at 8 o'clock last Thursday morning in the Hotel Mayflower Ballroom as the President of the United States, the vice president, and several members of the Cabinet — Catholic, Protestant and Jew — sat down together with delegates to the International Christian Conference at David Lawrence a prayer breakfast.

The occasion was the ninth annual Presidential Prayer Breakfast held under the auspices of the International Christian leadership. Simultaneously in 20 states, governors were present at similar breakfasts.

There was no reference to the so-called religious issue in American politics unless it was implied in the remarks of Vice President Lyndon Johnson, who said:

"In recent months our nation has re-examined and reaffirmed the principle of separation of church and state. We cherish that principle and the protection that it affords the integrity of each man's soul. I'm sure the principle has no stronger defender than the man who sits with us this morning as the President of the United States."

"But we need to remember that the separation of church and state must never mean the separation of religious values from the lives of our public servants."

In view of the fact that several months ago there was some doubt expressed that a Roman Catholic, as president, would attend any public functions concerned with religious matters on an interdenominational basis, the presence of President Kennedy was itself refutation of such a theory.

HE NOT ONLY attended but made a speech in which he said:

"I think it is most appropriate that we should be gathered together for this morning's meeting. This country was founded by men and women who were dedicated or came to be dedicated to two propositions: First, a strong religious conviction, and secondly a recognition that this conviction could flourish only under a system of freedom."

"I think it is appropriate that we pay tribute to the great constitutional principle which is enshrined in the First Amendment of the Constitution, the principle of religious independence, of religious liberty, of religious freedom. But I think it is also important that we pay tribute and acknowledge another great principle, and that is the principle of religious conviction. In this nation, freedom has no significance unless it is accompanied by conviction."

"Therefore the Puritans and the Pilgrims in my own section of New England, the Quakers of Pennsylvania, the Catholics of Maryland, the Presbyterians of North Carolina, the Methodists and the Baptists who came later, all shared these two great traditions which, like silver threads, run through the warp and the woof of American history."

"While they came from a wide variety of religious backgrounds and held a wide variety of religious beliefs, each of our presidents in his own way has placed a special trust in God. Those who were strongest intellectually were also strongest spiritually. . . ."

"The guiding principle and prayer of this nation has been, is now, and shall ever be 'In God We Trust.'"

Just before the President's address, Sen. Frank Lausche of Ohio and Rep. Bruce Alger of Texas spoke briefly in behalf of the Senate and House breakfast groups which meet regularly every week to discuss spiritual topics.

AN IMPRESSIVE SPEECH was given, too, by Dr. Billy Graham, who sat next to President Kennedy. Here are some excerpts from what the noted evangelist said:

"What are we to do at this hour? Which way are we to turn? Pope Leo XII—, in his famous message on labor, said: 'When a society is perishing, the true advice to give those who would restore it is to call it to the principles from which it sprang.' . . ."

"I'm convinced, after studying the race question, for example, in this country for several years, that we will never be able to legislate morals and we can never legislate love. It must come from within the heart. . . ."

"A society is no stronger than its individuals. It must start with you, and it must start with me. I think it is highly significant that the President and the vice president and members of the Cabinet and Senate and House should be here at this hour, joining hands with governors throughout the nation to please the court of heaven, and without his help this nation is doomed. . . ."

"I sense a new spirit in the world. I believe once again God has given to this nation a new opportunity under the leadership of our new President."

It was an unusual setting. Between the speeches, there were readings from the scriptures—one of them a reading by Robert McNamara, the new secretary of defense. Nearby sat Adlai Stevenson, Secretary of Agriculture Freeman, Secretary of Labor Goldberg, Postmaster General Day, Secretary of the Treasury Dillon, Secretary of State Rusk, Secretary of Commerce Hodges.

The whole session lasted 1 1/2 hours and, when it was over, the President and vice president and Billy Graham stopped in to say a few words to a special meeting held concurrently for the wives of the delegates and members of Congress.

Mr. Kennedy got loud applause as he remarked with a smile: "It seems to me that in the true Christian spirit next year we should all sit down together and that we should have gentlemen and ladies pray and reason together and not confine them to different rooms."

Incentive For Business

By Hobart Rowan

The question of tax incentives for business is very much on the minds of President Kennedy and his key officials. It comes up in two ways:

First, Kennedy and Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon are seeking ways of stimulating business investment in this country for new plants and equipment.

Second, up for decision is a knotty and related problem: Should the government continue in effect a special tax privilege designed to encourage American businessmen to build plants overseas?

All told, the value of American properties in foreign countries is close to $40 billion—and increasing at a fast rate. In 1960, alone, there was $1.5 billion of new long-term capital that moved abroad.

On investments at home: The business community is almost unanimous in its belief that allowances for accelerated depreciation—a faster tax write-off—would help economic growth. Some economists on the other hand, wonder whether it makes sense to try to stimulate more plant building at a time when there clearly is an excess of capacity over demand.

The answer to the latter argument is that we need plant modernization, even if we do not need new factories in some industries. We have tended to fall behind Europe, which—with American aid since the war—has reconstructed much of its industrial capacity from the ground up.

The competitive disadvantage some American companies find themselves in stems from a comparison of available equipment and factories. Labor Secretary Arthur Goldberg estimates that some $75 to $80 billion worth of American plants have become outdated.

While we fostered the incentive to invest abroad, by allowing American subsidiary companies to postpone payment of taxes until they bring their earnings home, no extraordinary tax incentive for plant expansion at home has been provided.

The tax postponement feature provides a tremendous advantage, even though it may appear to be just a temporary one.

Confident Living

By Norman Vincent Peale

God's Power In Human Experience

After a recent meeting of the New York Rotary Club, a man came up to me and asked which way I was going. He said he would like to go with me a few blocks. I thought he must have a problem of some sort, but I certainly guessed wrong. As we walked along I became aware that here was a man who was deeply, vibrantly happy.

"I want to tell you," he said, "that the positive way of life you have been teaching really works. Do you yourself know how well it works?"

"I wouldn't be so dishonest as to teach it if I weren't certain it would work," I replied.

"Well," he asserted, "you just have no idea how well it has worked for me!"

I KNEW THEN that he had a story. It seems this man had been having a very hard time of it. Everything seemed to be going wrong, especially in his job. He kept running into stone walls and roadblocks, as he put it. He was completely at a loss what to do about it. He was frustrated and discouraged and, he emphasized, "I don't mean maybe."

At this point he read something of mine in which was advanced the idea of taking God as your partner — which simply means putting your life in God's hands and letting Him change you and get you in harmony with His purposes, so that His power may be with you, helping you in your thinking and living.

He took this article to his office and sat there alone rereading it and "doing some basic thinking." He thought: "I've tried everything else — so might as well try this."

BOWING HIS head he prayed, saying, "Lord, I can't handle my situation. I don't seem to be getting the right ideas. I'm licked. My business is going broke. I want to take you as my partner. I haven't anything to offer you except myself and the opportunity to help me make something of myself and clean up the mess I'm in. Please be my partner. I need a partnership that will work. I don't really understand how. And I may as well tell you frankly, Lord, I have my doubts about it. But I am ready to do anything you tell me and give this partnership a try for I'm just about sunk."

As he told me this, I asked him, "Did you really say all that in your prayer?"

"Yes, that is what I said."

"What happened then?"

"Well, he went on, 'after I got through praying I sat there in my chair and nothing happened. And I thought to myself, 'Well, this is just one of those things. But then I began to feel real peaceful and tions and Gary Williams refreshments."

"The Three W's of Worship" will be the subject of Rev. Tangay at the 7:30 p. m. service.

easy. Presently I decided to go out and take a walk. I don't know why; it just seemed to be the next thing to do. I walked about a mile and then turned around, thinking I had better get back to the office.

"And on my way back, as I came to a certain street corner, I suddenly stopped and just stood there at the curb, for into my mind popped an idea that had not occurred to me before, an idea for solving my main problem. I do not know where it came from. It was right out of the blue.

"I WENT back to my office and put that idea into action and things began to click one after another. And it wasn't long until the whole situation began to look up.

"I continued putting myself each day completely in God's hands. Oh, I had some hard days — don't think I didn't. There still were difficulties to deal with."

plenty of them. But I was making progress from day to day and I felt very different. When I became different everything became different, so to speak.

"And I'll tell you what I'm doing now. I am going through the New Testament making a list of all the things Jesus tells us to do. And I am trying to do them. For example, I have quit hating anybody. Jesus says to get right with people you've been on the outs with; I have been doing that. He says to have faith; I have been doing that. I can only say that I have never been so happy."

He concluded, "and life has never been so exciting."

This man surely had something. He was alive. He had an up-beat spirit. There is a power in human experience stronger than human power and stronger even than the mightiest physical force. It is God's power.

Did you think science has explained God's power away? On the contrary: the more deeply scientists examine the wonders of the universe, the more they see on every hand mysterious signs of a Divine Intelligence governing all things. Find out what men like Sherman A. Waksman or Robert Millikan or Werner von Braun — for example — have to say about God.

The giants of American history were men who had a strong sense of God's influence in shaping human destinies. Abraham Lincoln, the commemoration of whose greatness makes the 12th of February a special day in the calendar, said once, "I have been driven many times to my knees by the overwhelming conviction that I had nowhere else to go. My own wisdom, and that of all about me, seemed insufficient for the day."

Are you faced with problems you cannot seem to solve? Are you discouraged and distressed? Well, here is your answer to that problem: put yourself in God's hands; ask Him to help you; then believe that He can and will. Just believe. That's the secret. That humble act of faith is the way to new beginnings — provided you start living out God's teachings. Why live on your own inadequate strength when you can have God's power.

PROMISE

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Day	Book	Chapter	Verses
Sunday	I John	2	24-25
Monday	Psalms	85	11-13
Tuesday	I Chronicles	28	9
Wednesday	Job	11	13-14
Thursday	John	14	3-4
Friday	John	14	5-7
Saturday	Hebrews	10	24-25

The Saxons had a word for Spring. It was Lencten, shortened, in time, to Lent.

So the name Lent was given to that springtime period of 40 fast days from Ash Wednesday until Easter.

Lent came to mean a time of penitence. And it is. But it is also a time of preparation, and of promise. For because Lent means Spring, it heralds good things to come. It forecasts the glorious message of Easter. It is the dawn of the most beautiful season of the year.

The bare branches of these trees will burst into bud and leaf with the touch of Spring. Our thoughts during Lent, our personal preparations, also will reach fruition when the 40 days are through.

Lent is the time for prayer and self-examination. Make this Lenten season really mean something by seeking help and guidance at your church services.

Mrs. Wisecup said she was about 60 feet from the house when she heard one of the children scream. By the time she reached the house, it was enveloped by flames. The boys were standing outside.

Cunningham Shatters All ELHS Marks On 41-Point Spree

Wellsville Ups Win Streak To Four Over Chester, 70-53

Nets 36 In 2nd Half; Potters Notch 10th

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

A foul shot dropped through the nets with 2:14 remaining in Friday night's game at Memorial Auditorium and with it went every record in East Liverpool High School basketball scorebooks.

The player who made the foul was Kenneth George Cunningham, who will have to go down as one of the greatest athletes ever to wear the blue and white.

Cunningham scored 41 points to shatter all marks. The total was the greatest ever amassed by an East Liverpool player since the sport has been played on a variety basis.

Cunningham, on his way to the record, led East Liverpool to its first winning mark in three seasons. The Potters smothered Toronto with their top point outburst of the season, 89-58.

THE VICTORY pushed the Potters' record to 10-4 and assured Jim Harris of a winning campaign in his second season of coaching at his alma mater.

At halftime there wasn't a fan in the crowd of some 1,100 who gave Cunningham even a slim chance of setting a school record. Actually, after the first half ended the nimble Potter star was in the midst of one of his worst night scoring-wise.

He had only totaled five points in the first half, but caught fire in the third and fourth quarters to rattle the hoops for 36 points.

Kenny couldn't miss in the second half and made 13 out of 17 shots. He hit on six of seven from the field in the fourth quarter. His total showed 15 field goals and 11 of 14 fouls.

Never were Potter fans treated to such a scoring pace as Cunningham's. He scored 36 in 16 minutes. His best weapon was his jump shot.

THE 41 POINTS represent an all time high for ELHS. Digging back into the record books, Chuck Smith scored 40 against Beaver in a game won by East Liverpool, 94-8, during the 1912-13 season.

Cunningham held the modern record of 39 and strangely enough set it against the same Toronto club a year ago at Toronto. The Potters lost that game, 62-61.

Moving into the record books, Cunningham set a new Memorial Auditorium mark by an individual. It was previously held by Pick Rolley of Wellsville, who scored 40 points in a Sectional Tournament game in 1957.

The 41 points broke Cunningham's own MA record for a Potter player of 34 points set during his sophomore year.

The 6-foot cager has been East Liverpool's all-time scorer for sometime and is almost a cinch to go over the 1,000-point mark.

The all-state candidate, in less than three seasons has scored 943 points and has hit more than 300 each year.

After Cunningham had scored 35 points, Harris removed him from the lineup with 4:21 remaining. He

Rebels Gain 11th Victory Over N. Lima

FAIRFIELD — Coach Bing Newton's Fairfield-Waterford quint made it two straight over North Lima by tacking a 53-42 defeat on the visitors here Friday night.

The victory pushed Fairfield's record to 11-4, placing it among the district's top outfits.

After a low-scoring first quarter which found Fairfield taking a 6-5 advantage, the Rebels sprang to a 21-13 margin at halftime and 37-23 at the end of three quarters.

Jim Kress paved the way with 19 points and was the only Fairfield starter to hit the double digits. Lou Day tallied 14 in a losing cause.

In a double sweep, the Fairfield reserves defeated the North Lima jayvees, 46-41.

Tigers Will Face Goshen At Salem

Wellsville High's Tigers gun for their fifth straight triumph tonight, opposing twice-beaten Goshen Union, with sophomore star Steve Baldwin, 6-5 center, listed as a doubtful starter.

Coach Jack McDevitt's Tigers overcame ball control tactics Friday night at Beacom Memorial gymnasium and rolled over Chester, 70-53, for their eighth victory and fourth in succession.

Baldwin, who suffered a sprained ankle against Steubenville Central last week, has been ill this week and was ordered confined in his home last night.

Even without the tall sophomore, the Tigers unleashed a 30-goal attack to chalk up a "no sweat" victory over Chester as big Bob Kiggins, 6-4 senior, delivered 17 points.

Scoring honors for the night, however, were accorded Junior Blaine Pinney of Coach Max Tuttle's Chester Panthers who poured in 23 on nine goals and five foul shots.

Wellsville rolled up a 33-22 half-time lead and everybody available saw action with nine different players sharing in the scoring.

The Tigers oppose Goshen Union (12-2) tonight at 8:15 in the Salem High School gymnasium. The reserve game will open at 7. Goshen Union polished off Springfield Local of Mahoning County Friday night, 73-33, in an easy victory.

Kiggins' burst increased his total for the season to 259 and the senior star will carry an average just a shade under 20 per game against Goshen Union tonight.

Phil Baldwin also hit in double figures with 14 points, one of his high marks of the season, while Roger Ours collected 13. Ben Cannadate, Rod Ferguson, Rick Gray, Andy Dash, Alvin Thompson and Ben Jones also shared in the scoring.

Behind Pinney in scoring was Chuck Mullen with 16 points, while Bill Mackall collected nine. The Panthers show a 4-12 mark for the season, while the Tigers are 8-5.

In the preliminary, the Wellsville reserves defeated the Chester reserves, 45-38, with Dash and Alvin Jackson scoring nine and eight points, respectively, for the winners.

Durbin Hits Season High Of 25 Pts.; Beavers Defeat Salineville, 72-65

Big Mike Durbin popped in 25 points, a new season high, to spark surprising Beaver Local to a 72-65 victory over Salineville Friday night on the Salineville boards.

Durbin, a husky center, bagged 10 goals and five free throws as the Beavers of Coach Jack Froneck chalked up their 12th win of the season, and the second for the campaign over rival Salineville.

The Beavers have lost only three and have two games remaining before writing the school's first winning slate into the books.

Salineville, led by Paul Kelley's 19 points, subjected the Beavers to a tough test, the first half in particular, when the score was deadlocked seven different times.

The Beavers went ahead in the third quarter, breaking a 42-42 tie on two foul shots by Gary Pike, and were never headed again.

Durbin delivered only six points in the first half, but sparked the Beaver's stretch drive with 19 in the second. Three other starters hit in double figures as Jim Banner got 13, Pike 12 and Dick Barnhart 11. Bill Reed, another starter, finished with seven.

Behind Kelley for Salineville came Bud Leatherberry with 15 points and Jack Baker with 14. High-scoring Ron Giannone, 5-8 guard, was held to one of his lowest totals of the year in getting only eight. Giannone shows a total of 297 for the campaign.

Cubs Sign All, But No Manager

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Cubs have everyone signed — 40 players and eight coaches—but no manager.

And that's how it is going to be for the 1961 baseball campaign, according to President P. K. Wrigley.

There'll be eight coaches and no field manager for a ball club that hasn't finished in the National League's first division since 1946 and hasn't won a pennant since 1945.

Although the Cubs haven't announced the signing of Bobby Adams as their eighth coach, the fact was disclosed in Commissioner Ford Frick's "Bulletin" which carries all official contract transactions. Frick's office revealed that Adams was signed as a coach Dec. 30, 1960.

Williams Leads At Phoenix By 2

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—A part-time tournament pro entered the third round of the $30,000 Phoenix Open today with a two-stroke lead and a most disturbing thought: the great Arnold Palmer was on the move.

Henry Williams Jr., who spends most of his time teaching club members at Fleetwood, Pa., how to play golf, was the front runner at the halfway mark of the 72-hole birdie battle after a course record seven-under-par 63 Friday.

Young Dave Marr, from Houston, Tex., and Phoenix, was right behind at 133. But it was an excellent guess that, next to the course itself, the big worry of Williams and everyone else among the 71 pros surviving the 36-hole cut was Palmer.

The muscular 1960 golfer of the year caught fire early in playing what he describes as "my best golf this year" in the second round. After hooking his second shot into a lake for a double bogie six on the first hole Friday, he shot nothing but pars and birdies to come in with a five-under-par 65. This tied him with Don January at 134, three strokes off the pace.

Stanton Makes Newell 16th Straight To Finish Undeclared

Beaver Rips Midland, 46-29, Takes Section 8 Driver's Seat

Spires, Lutton, Mills Set Pace; Tourney Road Ahead

By BYRON EELLS
Review Staff Writer

Beaming like a June moon on young lovers, Coach Harry Diehl gratefully commented, "I didn't mind it a bit," when his Stanton Local Ironmen clinched their all-victorious season by throwing him in the showers after sweeping past Newell, 86-71, Friday night on the Irondale floor.

But the personable young coach sobered quickly as his thoughts turned to the win-or-get-out tournament trail starting Thursday night at Brilliant.

"We still have a long way to go," said Diehl, who launched his coaching career this season in a spectacular manner.

A standing-room-only crowd cheered loudly as Don (Wild) Spires, John Lutton and Bob Mills combined for 73 points to pace the Ironmen to their 16th consecutive victory.

THE LANKY Spires poured in 30 points to boost his season total to 365. Lutton, the chunky playmaker, followed closely with 25 and the steady Mills, hitting on his favorite one-handed jump shots, added 18.

Forced to shoot over the Irons' tight zone defense, Coach John Robinson's cagers were able to hit only three field goals in the first quarter and never were able to make up the 13-point deficit, although battling the Jefferson County cagers on even terms for the remainder of the game.

Ron Noland led the Vikings' attack with 19 points, while Larry Hutton and Mickey Staley contributed 17 each. Held to seven points in the first two periods, Noland and Staley came back in the final half with 29.

Colder than the proverbial mackerel in the first half, Newell managed only nine fielders in 31 attempts, but came back with a 44 percent effort in the second half to finish with 25 of 67 for a 37 per cent shooting mark.

The visitors found the foul line profitable, hitting on 9 of 10 in the first two periods and 12 of 17 in the second half for a fine 21 of 27.

THE IRONS, who have been averaging 52 per cent from the field this season, were red hot in the first half, scorching the nets with 19 goals in 29 attempts for a spectacular 65 per cent. They cooled off to 50 per cent in the last two periods to finish with a 60 per cent average, canning 33 fielders in 56 tries.

After Curt Rose put the Ironmen in front to stay with a goal from underneath to open the game, Mills and Hutton bagged two fielders each to make the score 6-4 before the Irons clicked off 12 points in a row, half of them by the 6-6 Spires, to virtually put the game out of reach.

Noland finally hit a fielder for Newell's last goal of the quarter as the visitors finished on top, 21-8.

Spires got the Ironmen off on the right foot with a tip in to open the second quarter, but Tom Woods, Hutton and Tom Bell hit on set shots for the Vikings to counteract Lutton's driving layup and reduce the margin to 10 points, the closest the Robison cagers could come for the rest of the game.

WORKING smoothly in the pivot, Spires added four more fielders to spark Stanton into a 43-27 lead at the halftime.

Newell opened the second half with a full court press, which seemed to hamper the Ironmen, but not to the point that they lost their shooting eye.

Big Spires continued to dominate Stanton's attack with six points in the third period, but all five players shared in the scoring.

Noland came alive for the Vikings to register four times from the field, bagging one-handers from the corner.

Newell lost Woods, who had picked up four personals guarding Spires in the first half, with 2:55 remaining in the quarter. He had chipped in with seven points for the Vikings in the first half.

The fourth period almost turned into a foul shooting contest as Newell put on the pressure trying to get the ball, but Lutton picked up the scoring, tallying three driving goals and hitting 6 for 6 from the foul line to account for half of the Ironmen's points.

MOVING from the corner to the front of the foul circle, Staley began to find the range, dropping in four fielders and adding a pair of fouls.

Hutton, who had been connecting with long one-handers in an effort to break up the zone, departed after committing his fifth personal with 1:34 to go.

Newell's efforts to penetrate the zone in the second half were hampered by the low ceiling. Trying to shoot above the giant Spires' outstretched arms, the Vikings saw at least three shots bounce off the ceiling.

Stanton's tough defense clamped the lid on the usually reliable Bell, limiting him to a field goal and foul in the first half and a pair of each in the last two periods.

Stanton's reserves showed the way for the varsity by edging the Newell jayvees, 56-52, despite a 34-point scoring outburst by Dave Bell, younger brother of the varsity cager. Scott Porter led the Ironmen with 15 points.

South Side High's Rams failed to shake their losing ways Friday night as they were sidelined by South Fayette, 70-51, on the winners' court.

The Rams show a dismal 1-18 record with only three regular season games remaining to show any improvement in the victory column.

South Fayette moved rapidly to a 20-10 first period lead, then enjoyed a 23-point second quarter to remain far ahead, 43-22, at the half. The winners were in front after three periods, 58-34.

South Fayette came through with a well-balanced attack in posting a 28-goal assault. Leading the way was McFalls with 14 points, while two other starters hit in double figures.

South Side's Dale Ashcroft took game scoring honors with 18 points. Chuck Schmidt netted 14 and Cecil Frasier nine.

Midland Drops Second In League Battle Before 1,200

By CHUCK CRONIN
Review Sports Writer

In Midland High's locker room last month, Coach Henry (Hank) Kuzma wryly observed, "We beat Beaver once, but they're still the strongest team in Section 8 play."

Kuzma, who's been in the business long enough to know what he's talking about, saw his observation become a shocking truth Friday night as Midland was bombed by sectional rival Beaver, 46-29, in a showdown battle before a sellout crowd of over 1,200.

The defeat, surprising in that it was so decisive, virtually sealed Midland's doom for another Section 8, WPIAL title.

The Leopards, far off their usual form, fell behind early and were never in contention as the hustling Beaver quip gained revenge for its lone league defeat.

THE IMPORTANT victory pushed Beaver into a more favorable position for its first Section 8 crown and tightened its hold on first place in the loop standings with a 9-1 record.

Beaver, only beaten twice all season, received a 22-point performance from big Stu Hayes, 6-4 center, and cashed in at the foul stripe for important points to coast to victory.

The husky Hayes connected steadily for six field goals and 10 of 15 foul shots to take individual honors for the night. His rebounding, shared with two other towering starters, Bill McIntyre, 6-3, and Vince Binkoski, 6-4, proved the deciding factor along with Midland errors.

A STRANGER in Beaver's new gymnasium might have thought the host team had won the state title in view of the commotion after the final buzzer.

Jubilant Beaver fans, apparently remembering Midlands' 41-37 victory earlier in the season, hoisted veteran Coach Jim Cutrie to their collective shoulders and carried him from the floor in a noisy salute for guiding Beaver toward its first title in history.

Beaver displayed a hustling brand of ball.

Speaker Awaited By Ceramists For Session Tuesday

Dr. Eugene I. Ryshkewitch, director of research for the National Beryllia Corp. at Haskell, N. J., will address the Pittsburgh Section of the American Ceramic Society at its February meeting Tuesday night in Pittsburgh.

Dr. Ryshkewitch will discuss "Beryllium Oxide Ceramics" at a meeting at 8:15 at Mellon Institute. The technical session will follow dinner at 6:30 at the Park Schenley Restaurant.

Born in Russia, Dr. Ryshkewitch studied chemistry at the Imperial University in St. Petersburg, then at the Universities of Leipzig and Munich. He has been associated with various U. S. firms since 1946, when he was named a consulting scientist at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base at Dayton.

The section also is making plans for a dinner March 10 at the Pittsburgh Athletic Association, when the annual Albert Victor Bleininger Memorial Award will be presented to Dr. Eugene C. Sullivan of the Corning Glass Works. He was selected for the honor in December.

At the meeting April 11, also at Mellon Institute, the principal speaker will be Roy W. Brown, sales manager of the Harbison-Carborundum Corp. at Falconer, N. Y.

The annual "Ladies Night" party, concluding the 1960-61 season, is being arranged for May 5, with a theater party at the Pittsburgh Playhouse, preceded by dinner.

State Seeks Private Homes In County To Care For Aged

LISBON — Miss Agnes Lustig, representative of the Ohio Department of Public Welfare, was in Columbiana County Thursday, seeking homes for persons 60 and older.

Before becoming a home finder for the state, she was a case worker for the Geauga County Aid to the Aged Office.

It is part of the state's effort to place aging persons in private homes, where they may be accepted as members of the family and is directly associated with the governor's health program to clear mental hospitals of those who do not belong there, Miss Lustig said. A full scale home-finding program began in January.

In Columbiana County, there were 19 referrals, 12 have been placed and certified and seven were denied.

Miss Lustig is working through the Aid for the Aged Office on E. Washington St., and will return to the county periodically. She also has Mahoning, Trumbull, Portage and Geauga Counties.

"We want to find homes for those who no longer need or desire institutional care," Miss Lustig emphasized. The aim is to find places where they can feel at home as members of the family. Nursing care is not required, only the provision of room and board, for which the state pays a monthly amount. Medical care is also provided in case of illness.

The Aid for the Aged office already has a list of persons who have offered homes, and Miss Lustig is hoping the number will grow as the public becomes aware of the state's pioneering effort in this field.

Those who have a room available should write Miss Lustig, Box 35, Thompson, Ohio. The writer should include directions to the home and a phone number so Miss Lustig can arrange for a visit. She is also available for talks to clubs and other groups.

Area VA Official Cites War Orphans Change

Originally the war orphans education program was for children of persons who died of a wartime service-connected disability.

By recent legislation, the scope of this fine program has broadened and children of peacetime veterans whose death was caused by the performance of their military duties or by extra-hazardous service may be eligible, said A. G. Bille, contact representative - in charge of the Veterans Administration Office in Steubenville.

Youngsters taking war orphans training must be between 18 and 23, generally. They can take up to 36 months of classroom study and receive an allowance from VA up to $110 for each month at school. The emphasis is on college and university work but training in a wide variety of schools below the college level is permitted. The young people are given vocational counseling by experts before they make their actual choice of studies.

Information or help on any of the benefits will be provided by Bille at the VA office, 227, N. 5th St., Steubenville.

THE MENACE OF IMMORAL MOVIES

Film producers are trapped
by a dirt-for-dollars philosophy, says this best-selling author, and it's time
they learned it's a road to ruin

By SLOAN WILSON

Editors' Note: Sloan Wilson, who wrote "The Man in the Gray Flannel Suit" and whose latest novel is "A Sense of Values," joins a lengthening list of outstanding writers—Billy Graham, Pearl Buck, Harry Golden, Willy Ley, Philip Wylie—who have contributed to making FAMILY

WEEKLY a more provocative and informative magazine for its readers. His analysis of movie-makers' preoccupation with sex, perversion, and violence may cause some disagreements, particularly since his own popular novel, "A Summer Place," became a highly controversial movie. His opinions, however, are presented as a literate man's reaction to a growing trend in our culture.

IT'S HARD TO GO to a movie theater these days without wondering what in the world is happening to American motion pictures—and foreign films, too, for that matter. The most sordid portrayals of adultery, psychopathic crime, and violence of almost every description are blatantly depicted. They are bad enough to make many parents hesitate to allow their children to attend.

The reason for the rash of tawdry movies is not a mysterious decline in the taste of the American public, nor even in that of the producers. Hollywood is full of highly skilled men who long to make genuinely good movies, and who are convinced that an ample audience exists for them. The difficulty is that Hollywood during the past 10 years has been on the edge of financial panic. The makers of movies tend to resort to dirt when they're afraid they can't make a living otherwise.

It is an ironic fact that most films which are advertised as "daring" only reflect the financial fears of the producers, who are seeking "insurance" at the box office. Sensational scenes are cheap to produce, and they can be counted upon to draw some kind of a crowd. The producer who has borrowed millions of dollars to make a movie and who has seen good films fail financially has to be brave to withstand the temptation of pay dirt.

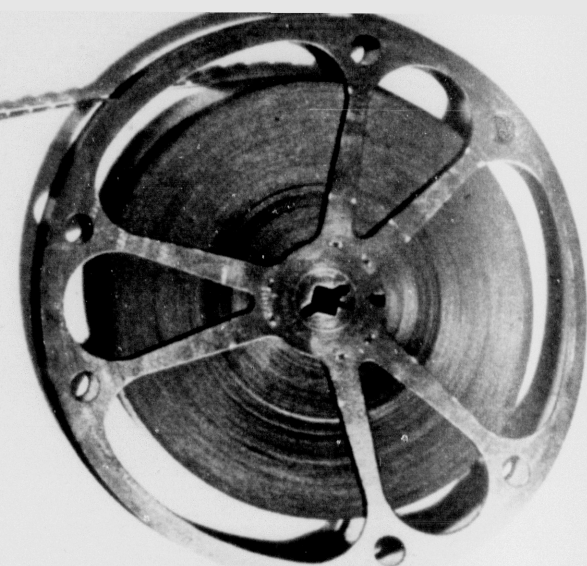

Yes, the producers have financial troubles—but does that mean that the American public has to settle for trash at their neighborhood movie house? Is censorship necessary?

Censorship has been tried often and in many forms, and is still being tried. It never really works. Dirt, of course, is not just certain story themes, but in the way such themes are treated, and treatment apparently is impossible to regulate by law. If a code were written to forbid films which dealt with sexuality, crime, or insanity, Shakespeare himself would find it impossible to write good dramas if he were living today.

TO DRAW up a code which restricted Americans to a film diet of dog stories, horse operas, and polite little stories in which nobody ever did anything wrong would be an immoral act in itself. Neither the audience nor the artist should be blindfolded by laws of censorship; they simply should be protected from those who wish to pervert the great spectacle of life into a dirty little tent show.

Of course, there always will have to be some censorship to prevent outright obscenity, but it is difficult to figure out what should be done beyond that. If we are going to try to prevent immorality in films, we are going to have to agree on some sort of definition of it, and that is never easy.

My own conviction is that anything is immoral if it subtracts from the dignity of the individual or of humanity as a whole, and that anything is moral if it adds to the fundamental dignity of mankind. A film which moves an audience to understanding and compassion for human weaknesses seems to me to be moral.

From all this, I conclude that more censorship is not the answer to the present flood of tawdry motion pictures. What is the answer? Probably there is no easy, over-all solution. Just as there always have been some scurrilous books and magazines, which we tolerate for the sake of a free press, there always will be some scurrilous movies. The hope is not that such films will disappear entirely, but that more good dramas will be made to replace them in most local theaters.

Fortunately, Hollywood has become more prosperous and less panic-stricken in the last two years. As the movie makers regain their confidence, they may feel that they have to resort less to the box-office "insurance" of dirt and may be emboldened to take the great risk inherent in the job of making genuinely good movies.

WHAT CAN INDIVIDUALS do to help create conditions in which more good films will be made? To the extent that any individual can do anything to affect so large an enterprise as the motion-picture industry, it would help if people supported good films. All too many people who complain about the lack of good movies don't go to see the really fine ones.

Eventually, movie makers will realize that movies still have a bright future and are not going to be relegated to the position of cheap side shows. There is a big enough audience in America for good films to justify the cost of producing them. There are plenty of producers, directors, actors, and writers who want nothing more than to recover their self-respect by making movies of lasting value. Because these two facts are true, it can only be a question of time before conditions are created that will bring us more good movies.

An American Family Flees from Cuba HAVANA WAS OUR HOME

ANONYMOUS

They left behind a lifetime of work, love, and friendship to start life anew in the U.S.; Their crime? They were the hated "Yanquis"

● This is the personal account of an American-born wife and mother who spent most of her adult life in Cuba. Months before diplomatic relations between Cuba and the U. S. were broken and virtually all Americans ousted, her family was forced to flee their adopted land. She has requested that her name be withheld because of possible reprisals against friends still under the Castro regime.

AFTER 18 YEARS, we left Cuba with only what we could carry and five carefully hoarded U.S. dollars apiece.

Havana had been home for my family since 1942, a home we loved. Now we were leaving for good, forced to head northward and begin all over again by hard, rigid economic fact, by pent-up nerves, by made-in-Moscow propaganda programs. The day we left, we carried all our remaining possessions in 17 suitcases—and we carried fear, too.

The Cuban revolutionary government practices the scare tactic of leaving you alone until you prepare to leave. Then, as you enter the preboarding room at the Rancho Boyeros Airport and show your exit permit, ticket, and passport, and after you've waved goodbye to family and friends and are irrevocably shut off by locked and guarded doors—then they act.

There's a tap on your shoulder, and you turn to face a long-haired, bearded rebel soldier who herds you into a small room and orders you to undress. There you undergo a humiliating surface-to-skin search. At best, you'll miss your plane; at worst, you'll be subjected to four or more days detainment in the mansion-turned-prison of the Army Intelligence Service in suburban Miramar.

I took two nerve pills before we left for the airport and stowed a whole bottle in my purse in case of detainment. The planeload of Cuban and American travelers—many of them were leaving for good but not admitting it to the authorities—passed the preboarding scrutiny safely and were permitted to get on the plane.

There was a tenseness among all of us as the engines were started, for there was still another hurdle to be passed. Time after time, unkempt barbudo soldiers, shouldering arms against sweat-stained olive-drab shirts, will climb aboard, walk down the narrow aisle, and order passengers off. Even after the plane is airborne you cannot relax; there is still a chance to be ordered back by the control tower.

We were lucky. We made it. We were flying to the freedom of Miami, just 55 air minutes away from a once-happy land that had welcomed us wholeheartedly but was now stirred to fever pitch by a "Hate America" campaign.

Behind us was the house we'd worked so hard to own and the future we'd spent 18 years building. Behind us were a thousand memories of an openhearted people sold ruthlessly into the communist camp, memories of sunlit beaches and palms moving restless fronds high over evergreen countrysides. Behind us, we left our hearts.

It Became an Alien Land

The decision to leave wasn't easy. Havana was one of the most gracious cities in the world to live in. Cubans are a charming and hospitable people, life was relaxed and easy, the climate and customs benign. Yet the Cuba we loved had been changed drastically in less than two years of revolutionary rule.

The change began slowly in the first few months of 1959, but the handwriting was there from the beginning.

Each morning after Castro's heralded victory, I'd turn on the radio before driving the children to school. Not that the imprisoned press could report anything, but you learn to read behind the news, to gather rumor as future fact, to listen for signs that might mark this new day as the beginning of something dangerously different from yesterday.

"Keep your eyes peeled," I'd admonish the children as we drove into the main avenue.

And, young as they are, they'd sit silently, watching the passing cars, noting if there was an extra guard set up at crossings, if they were stopping vehicles for roadside searches, if there were any new "Hate America" signs plastered along buildings.

The children went to school, returned in the afternoon, and then remained close to home unless accompanied by us. There were no movies for them, no riding on public buses, no shopping at the 10-cent store. And I indelibly imprinted on their young minds the phone number of the American embassy in case they were ever in trouble, or if their father or I failed to return home. You never knew.

Early in the spring of 1959, our phone was tapped. It had been tapped before in General Batista's time, off and on. But now it was an everyday occurrence. My conversations were limited to commenting on the weather, saying nothing that might possibly be misconstrued.

As months wore on, we watched friends of long standing depart penniless for happier shores, leaving behind them a lifetime of work. We hoped we would be different. "This is our home, and we're going to stay here," my husband announced.

We tried. But our youngest would return from her American school, spouting about the marvels of the revolution, telling me that she had to "have one peso to give for arms and airplanes, Mommy, because the Americans are going to attack us."

We Lived in Terror

For a year, we never expressed our opinions or feelings to other than the closest of friends. Before entering a restaurant or club, we'd drop all but the most innocuous of talk. Long tablecloths can conceal microphones, waiters are in an ideal position to eavesdrop, the people at the next table might overhear.

In the department stores over each cash register are red and black signs saying, "The customer is always right—except when he speaks against the revolution. Be patriotic, denounce him!" The salesgirls carry in their receipt books, along with religious lithographs of Christ suffering on the Cross, picture cards of the bearded Cuban heroes.

"We'll stick it out," my husband had said. But the cost of living kept rising, rising, rising. And so did the taxes. Half of 1 percent of your income is deducted for maternity coverage (men and women alike), 5 percent for retirement (compulsory), 5 percent for unions (everything's unionized), 4 percent for industrialization—regardless of the size of the income or the number of dependents.

"I won't pay it," I decided. "Not the industrialization tax. We can't afford it, and I don't believe in it. Besides, it's voluntary."

"Do you know how voluntary?" my husband interrupted. "To get out of it, you have to write a letter."

"I'll write it."

"Then you have to go down to the Ministry of Labor to be interviewed, take along several pictures, be fingerprinted, and formally state your reasons for not 'volunteering.'" I gave up the idea.

As the months went by, fear rose in the Anglo-American colony like a silent flood. The premonitions increased at the approach of May Day when a giant million-strong rally had been summoned to show Cuba's "solidarity" against the U.S. Many Americans decided to fly to Miami till the day was over. Reasoning that we couldn't leave with each new surge of fear, we stayed.

Talking to a former Castroite turned counterrevolutionary, my husband voiced his fear for our family.

"If your wife's worried, I'll fix that up," said the counterrevolutionary who had once given his all for Fidel. "Tomorrow morning I'll send out two machine guns. Set them up in your house and take them back later."

We didn't accept, but we did remove the lawn sign bearing our American surname and stayed home.

"You watch television all day May 1, and if you notice anything about to happen, come over to my house," a Cuban friend said. "We'll move your car a couple of miles away, and no one will know you're here."

Practically every American family in Havana, fearful of communist-organized goon squads, had received similar offers from worried Cuban friends.

Our Son Is Brainwashed

We might have been able to take all of this if it hadn't been for our son, whom we thought old enough to distinguish right from wrong, communism from democracy. But brainwashing is insidious.

"Hey, Pop," he said one day, "did you know that a couple of years ago an American farmer got stuck in jail just because he overproduced?"

"Where in the name of heaven did you get that?"

"Why, my high-school teacher told us all about it," he answered enthusiastically.

"Say, Mom, did you know that José Martí (Cuba's counterpart of George Washington) was anti-American and was actually the first Cuban communist?"

"Dear," I replied, "you seem to forget that Martí spent most of his exile in New York City and that communism wasn't really an issue then."

"Don't argue," my husband said. "It's time to go."

We Tear Ourselves Away

Going wasn't easy. That last evening at home I walked in the garden at sunset, watching the western sky streak itself with glowing gold and crimson, with purple and pink, as it can only in Cuba. I touched the avocado, lime, and mango trees and tried to forget that I would never be tasting the fruit they were now bearing. And I tried to shut out the memories as I shut the house door behind me for the last time.

Now, when we should be reaping the benefits of years of work, we are starting over again, beginning from scratch without our furniture, appliances, china, silver, without even our souvenirs collected through the years. Those things were not ours, but part of the dwindling, depleted Cuban "wealth."

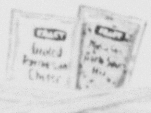

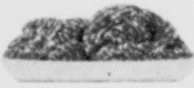

Yet we are fortunate, for we are here in the United States. We got out. There are many other Americans—perhaps 3,000 of the original 12,000—who haven't been able to make the trip for economic reasons. We write each other often, using codes which we hope will fool the censors. "My eyesight is very bad" means "Things are getting worse in Cuba." Sometimes we phone, although the wire tapping causes the conversation to sound as far away as Mars. And, although my letters tell them how difficult it is to adjust, how hard to start afresh, my friends in Cuba answer: "You are lucky."

Yes, very lucky. For this land, for this liberty, for this freedom from fear, I shall be ever thankful. Yet close to this liberty which we take so much for granted lies a sister country suffering, a sister country which once welcomed us without question but now is taught to hate us.

Havana harbored me for 18 years. It witnessed my marriage, the birth of my children, our successes and failures. Havana has been part of me and shall always be. Havana—poor, hapless Havana—was home.

Parakeets for Valentines

Experts claim they're not really lovebirds, but you can't prove it by American sweethearts

By MARYA SAUNDERS and ROBERT GAINES

A MILWAUKEE ATTORNEY recently dropped in to the pet shop of an old friend and asked plaintively, "What can I get him for Valentine's Day?"

"Get who?" his friend yelled, trying to shout a large cage of brightly colored birds.

"Oh, you know who.

The only one I know who loves me for myself—Petie, my parakeet."

The pet dealer nodded sympathetically. It was an old story to him. The shell parakeet or Australian budgerigar is one of the most affectionate birds in the feathered kingdom and has been a favorite pet and love gift throughout the world for more than 100 years.

In 1925, for example, a Japanese prince visiting England was given a pair of blue budgies by King George V. He brought them home as a love gift for his prospective bride.

A craze for giving parakeets began among well-to-do Japanese sweethearts that soon boosted prices as high as $1,000 a pair. It was during this period that the parakeet first became known in the United States and was often incorrectly sold as a lovebird.

The real lovebird, according to Sylvia Gray, who has bred and distributed 150,000 shell parakeets in the past 15 years, is African in origin, larger than the budgie, and not even in the parakeet family. He is sullen, irritable, and capable of pecking out his mate's eyes. While the 11 million parakeets found in American homes today are not officially lovebirds, they are by nature more lovable birds.

Once they mate, the parakeet pair will remain together for life and can pine terribly if separated. When offered genuine affection by humans, the parakeet responds with an enthusiasm practically unmatched in the bird world.

Parakeet owners usually become as attached to the bird as the bird to them. Some even take them to bed at night, and others never go visiting without budgie coming along in his little carrier.

How much a man can love his parakeet was demonstrated several years ago when New York City police arrested a prominent mobster for the brutal slaying of one of the city's worst loan sharks. They questioned him for 24 hours, but he wouldn't say a word. Exhausted, the detectives finally gave up and said the man could make a phone call.

They were amazed when the criminal rushed to the phone and instead of calling his lawyer dialed a local pet shop. In a worried voice, the mobster asked the owner to hurry over to his apartment and feed his pet parakeet, who hadn't had any fresh water or seeds in a day.

Another indication of America's love for the "lovebird" is that we spend $60 million a year on birdseed and parakeet toys. In return, we get not only a bird kiss but—if budgie is trained properly—even a "thank you," since the parakeet can imitate a large number of human sounds.

According to "All Pets Magazine," the first report of a talking budgerigar came from Germany in 1877 and from America in 1930, when a nine-month-old bird spoke 20 words. A couple of months ago, an English woman claimed her bird had a vocabulary of some 2,000 words.

Compared with other birds, the parakeet is unrivaled in his enthusiasm for human affection.

If you plan to buy one of these birds, here is what Sylvia Gray advises you to look for:

1. A healthy parakeet: he should be active, not puffed up, and should have a completely dry rump with no sign of diarrhea.

2. A young bird: the stripes should still be on the head and should reach the cere, which is the soft top of the parakeet's beak where you see the nostrils. The cere should not be a strong blue or tan, which indicates that the bird is a mature male or female, and the beak should be black.

3. A plump and fully feathered bird: if you can feel his bones when you hold him, he is probably not eating well and will not live long.

You'll also find that the current love affair between parakeets and the human race has the endorsement of many doctors. Some recommend parakeet breeding as an excellent form of rehabilitation for cardiac patients because it requires so little heavy work.

Many psychiatrists encourage parakeets for children with speech defects. The careful, slow enunciation needed to teach a parakeet to speak is as beneficial to the child as it is to the bird.

Recently, a psychiatrist in Austin, Texas, was visited by the worried parents of a seven-year-old girl who kept running away from home. The psychiatrist suggested the child have a pet. A parakeet was best for their small apartment.

"Let the child care for the bird herself," the psychiatrist said. "When she realizes how dependent it is on her, she won't want to leave home. You just can't walk away from love."

Which gives you an idea why another parakeet phenomenon is growing in the United States—giving a budgie as a Valentine's Day gift.

You can't get much more love in a four-ounce, feathered package.

Desserts to Charm the Feminine Taste

Family Weekly Cookbook / MELANIE DE PROFT, Food Editor

This attractive creamy mold accompanied by a cardinal-red fruit sauce is a creation elegant enough to grace a special-occasion table.

Sweetheart Dessert

TO PREPARE: 20 MIN.

TO CHILL: ABOUT 4 HRS.

- 2½ cups milk, scalded
- ½ cup farina
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ½ cup cold milk
- 1 tablespoon (1 env.) unflavored gelatin
- 2 eggs
- ½ cup sugar
- 1 cup chilled whipping cream, whipped
- 1 teaspoon almond extract

1. Lightly oil a 1½-qt. mold with salad or cooking oil (not olive oil); set aside to drain.
2. Gradually add farina and salt to the scalded milk, stirring constantly to prevent lumping. Bring to boiling. Continue stirring and cook over medium heat until thick, about 5 min.
3. Meanwhile, sprinkle gelatin evenly over the ½ cup cold milk in a bowl; let stand about 5 min. to soften.
4. Beat the eggs slightly. Add the sugar and beat well. Add about ½ cup of the cooked mixture gradually, beating after each addition. Immediately stir egg mixture into remaining cooked mixture. Cook over low heat 3 min., stirring constantly.

5. Remove from heat; add the softened gelatin and stir until completely dissolved. Cool.

6. Fold whipped cream and almond extract into the cooled farina mixture; blend well. Turn into mold. Chill until firm, at least 4 hrs.

7. Unmold onto a chilled serving plate and serve with Raspberry-Strawberry Sauce.

About 8 servings

Note: For garnish, dip whole blanched almonds into pink frosting and insert in top of mold. (See photo.)

Raspberry-Strawberry Sauce

TO PREPARE AND COOK: 10 MIN.

- 1 1-lb. pkg. frozen raspberries, thawed and drained (reserve sirup)
- 1 teaspoon cornstarch
- ¼ cup strawberry preserve

1. Blend raspberry sirup and cornstarch together in a saucepan. Bring to boiling; continue cooking, stirring constantly, until mixture is clear and slightly thickened.
2. Stir in the drained raspberries and strawberry preserve. Chill thoroughly. About 1¾ cups sauce

Apple Puffs

TO PREPARE AND DEEP FRY: ABOUT 45 MIN.

- 1 cup sifted flour
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 2 eggs, well beaten
- ½ cup milk
- 2 teaspoons lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 4 medium-sized firm apples
- ⅓ cup lemon juice
- 1 cup firmly packed brown sugar
- Flour
- Hydrogenated vegetable shortening, lard, or cooking oil for deep frying
- Confectioners' sugar

1. Sift the first four ingredients together in a bowl.
2. Combine eggs, milk, 2 teaspoons lemon juice, and vanilla extract. Make a well in center of dry ingredients and add liquid mixture. Stir until thoroughly blended. Set aside in refrigerator.
3. Wash, core, and pare apples. Cut crosswise into ¼-in. slices. Dip slices into remaining lemon juice and coat with brown sugar, then lightly with flour; dip slices into batter.
4. Deep fry in fat heated to 365°F about 3 min., or until puffs are golden brown, turning as they rise to surface of fat and several times during cooking. Drain over fat a few seconds before removing to absorbent paper.
5. Sift confectioners' sugar over puffs and serve warm. About 2½ doz.

Orange Soufflé

The refreshing citrus flavor of this delicate soufflé compensates for its tendency to fall slightly as it cools. To serve, spoon while warm into dessert dishes and top with a custard sauce or whipped cream.

TO PREPARE: 25 MIN.

TO BAKE: 35-40 MIN.

- 5 egg yolks
- ⅓ cup sugar
- 2 teaspoons grated orange peel
- 3 tablespoons orange juice
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 5 egg whites (about ⅔ cup)
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ¼ cup slivered toasted almonds

1. Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon colored; add sugar gradually, beating thoroughly after each addition. Beat in the grated orange peel and both juices.
2. Beat egg whites until frothy; add salt and beat until rounded peaks are formed and egg whites do not slide when bowl is partially inverted.
3. Gently fold egg whites into beaten egg-yolk mixture. Fold in almonds, reserving two tablespoonsfuls to sprinkle over top. Turn mixture into a 13½x9x2-in. baking dish; sprinkle reserved almonds over surface.
4. Bake at 325°F 35 to 40 min., or until cake tester inserted in center of soufflé comes out clean.
5. Serve soufflé warm with your favorite dessert sauce. About 8 servings

Frozen Chestnut Pudding

A dollop of whipped cream and a dash of maraschino cherry sirup served on each portion of this light pink pudding add vivid color contrast.

TO PREPARE: ABOUT 1½ HRS.

TO FREEZE: 3 HRS.

- ¼ cup sugar
- 6 tablespoons water

I was just thinking...

THE KINDEST THING that could be said about my relationship with the police department is that it has been unfortunate.

I'm not a hardened criminal, you understand. Just a little stupid.

Things got off to a poor start and so did I at the age of 17 when I took my driver's examination. I was so nervous and the policeman was so handsome that I killed the engine in an intersection. Then I forgot how to shift gears. He issued the license, I believe, because he was terrified ever to ride with me again.

A few years later, I noted a car behind me at a stop sign. In mental myopia, I mistook the uniforms. So I speeded through several blocks before I began to hear something which wasn't the mating call of a marine.

"Serves her right," remarked one of the children who saw me get a ticket. It did, too, but how do you tell a policeman you thought he was a masher?

Until I acquired a parking spot, I collected top honors one year from the police station for overtime tickets. I parked on the street every morning and forgot all about the meter. The motorcycle policeman never did.

The epitome of my reluctant association with the boys in blue came the evening I took a cooling ride in my car. I didn't plan to get out because I was wearing a blouse, Bermuda shorts, and bedroom slippers. The traffic was heavy. So was the impact of the car which turned into mine.

While I crouched against my battered car, yanking away at my garments, the police arrived. They observed my driver's license and wanted to know if I had another one.

"Do you need two now?" I said haughtily.

"This one expired last year," they haughtied right back.

My assailant laughed all the way to his insurance company. I cried all the way to the police station.

I've always had a not-so-secret crush on the police chief in our town, but it has reached the point where I'm afraid to speak when we meet.

I think my tickets are showing.

Let's Draw a Collie

By Ann Davidow

Lass, the collie, likes to nuzzle
With her long and pointed muzzle.

Draw her mane and dainty ears,
Her almond eyes like ladies' tears.

No dog than Lass is any faster
To her feet when comes the master.

She wags her tail, a thrashing plume.
Lass, the collie, fills the room.

Dog and Donkey

By Ragna Eskil

Players are divided into two relay teams. One team wears grocery bags (with slits cut in them to see through) which have dog faces drawn on them. The other team wears bags with donkey faces. Two stout boxes mark the goals some 15 or 20 feet away.

As each player reaches his goal, he has to jump on it and bark like a dog or bray like a donkey. Then he races back and tags the next player. When all have played, teams switch bags and repeat, but the donkeys are now dogs and the dogs are donkeys. First to finish without a mistake wins.

A Valentine Jigsaw

By Ruth Dixon

Have some red cardboard hearts already cut out, each at least five inches long. Cut each heart in the same way into about 10 odd shapes.

Give each player the cut-up pieces in an envelope. The back of a magazine, the floor, or a table can be used to assemble them, and the first one who puts his heart together is the winner!

Cross Your Heart

By Ida M. Pardue

Find your heart and cross it fast—
So your team won't come in last!

For this Valentine game, cut a paper heart for each player. Write a letter of the alphabet on each heart. Whisper to each player a different letter of the alphabet.

Divide the players into two teams. Line them up in two rows on opposite sides of the room. On a table between the two teams place two crayons or pencils and a bowl containing the hearts, well mixed.

At the word "Go," a player from each side runs to the table to find the heart with his letter—the one whispered to him—on it. If he does, he draws a cross on it and runs back to tag the next player who then tries his luck. Crossed hearts are tossed back in the bowl. The team to finish first wins.

Heart-y Fun!

By Ruth Dixon

Give each guest at your Valentine party a pencil and paper. Set a time limit and see which player can make the longest list of words that have the word heart in each. For instance, there is hearty, heartfelt, heart-broken, heartburn, sweetheart, etc.

If you wish, you can give a prize for the best list.

Riddles

1. Why is a yeast cake like an umbrella?
2. Why are men like dough?
3. Why should goat's milk be used in a dairy?
4. Who ate the first apple?
5. Why is there water in a watermelon?

Answers:

1. Both of them rise.
2. Because women knead (knead) them.
3. The goat makes the best butter.
4. The first pair (pear).
5. Because it's planted in the spring.

Marjorie Lord Says: "I Taught My Children to Take Care of Themselves"

Television's perfect mother had a more complex role in real life—raising two children while supporting them as an actress

By PEER J. OPPENHEIMER

LATE FOR A REHEARSAL one day several years ago, Marjorie Lord dashed into the kitchen of her San Fernando Valley home to fix a quick lunch for her two children, Gregg and Anne—only to find that her eight-year-old son had beaten her to it.

"You go on to rehearsal, Mom. I can fix the hamburgers as well as you can," Gregg said matter-of-factly. He did just that—most efficiently.

Although the kitchen prowess of most children of eight is limited to spreading a peanut-butter-and-jelly sandwich, young Gregg's ability to prepare a lunch for himself and his sister is the rule, not the exception, in the Lord household.

Gregg is now 15 and Anne 13, but Marjorie's insistence that they learn to take care of themselves dates back to her divorce from their father, actor John Archer, when the children were six and four. The fact that Marjorie is remarried, to theatrical producer Randy Hale, hasn't changed the picture. If anything, the youngsters have learned to be even more self-reliant, because Hale has his main office in San Francisco and sometimes can't get home for the weekend. At those times, Marjorie visits him in the Bay City.

At the studio, Marjorie, who plays Danny Thomas' television wife, watches as her make-believe youngsters, Rusty Hamer and Angela Cartwright, are guarded like treasures. Since both youngsters are under age (Rusty is 13 and Angela 8), California law requires they have their mothers with them on the set. But when Gregg and Anne spend a day at the studio with their mother, it's a rare treat.

In addition, Rusty and Angela are required to have a teacher with them constantly—including vacations. How different from Marjorie's real-life children! At Rusty's and Angela's ages they were running the household while Marjorie was earning the bread and butter.

"For financial reasons," says Marjorie, "I had to go back to my career after my divorce. I had given up working to devote time to my family, but it turned out that the children had to learn to care for themselves. I'm glad that they did."

SOMETIMES their concern to help out "Mom" proved a bit of a strain to the uninitiated—like the afternoon young Gregg answered the telephone. "Mommy isn't home right now," he told the caller, an important casting director. "May I take a message?"

The director gave Gregg his phone number.

"Will you spell 'Hollywood,' please?" seven-year-old Gregg begged. "Mommy will be cross if I don't get it right."

"He kept the casting director on the phone half an hour spelling 'Hollywood' so he could take down the message accurately," recalls Marjorie.

Marjorie taught her children by treating them as grown-ups, but without taking the fun out of childhood. "I never talked baby talk to them," she recalls. "I had an aunt who was always cooing at me, and I hated it very much, so I didn't want to inflict it on my children."

Her divorce and Marjorie's instinctively independent spirit combined to shape her attitude toward child rearing. Her own family was united, and she led a normal, unpampered life. Nevertheless, she decided at 15 to go out on her own.

Marjorie started out studying ballet but met an actress who encouraged her to go into show business professionally. She easily won the first summer-stock role she tried out for. Marjorie's head was in the clouds—until she tried for her next job. "When I lost out on it," she says, "I came down to earth with a bang." Yet she went on to a number of Broadway and touring roles, and while playing in "The Male Animal" met and married actor John Archer.

Nowadays, Marjorie has a helping hand in raising Anne and Gregg: her parents live next door to her San Fernando Valley home and look after the children when she's at work. But Anne and Gregg still handle many of the household duties, even now that Marjorie can afford a full-time housekeeper. In fact, Marjorie recalls, "Recently when both her grandmother and I were ill, Anne ran both houses beautifully."

Except for special chores, the children get no allowance for housework, because Marjorie doesn't think they should be paid for helping out in their own home.

Instead, the children are encouraged to be resourceful in earning money. Two years ago, Gregg needed some extra funds for Christmas, so he set up a stand in front of his home to sell mistletoe. That year he took in $35, but the next year, when he tried again, it was raining so much that mistletoe sales didn't go so well.

But Gregg commented: "That's life."

Gregg and Anne are willing to work toward other ends, too. For instance, Marjorie wanted them to have the best possible schooling and guidance because she was away more than most mothers. Her solution was a private school, which put a severe strain on the family budget. When the children's grades didn't live up to her expectations, they had a heart-to-heart talk. Marjorie pointed out that going to a private school was a privilege they had to earn by getting good grades—or the extra expense would no longer be justified. The children promptly buckled down to work and became honor students; Gregg is also president of his class and captain of the school baseball team.

MARJORIE is convinced that children suffer only if their parents are unhappy. When their father visited them one day to announce his remarriage plans, Gregg and Anne were disturbed. After Archer left, Gregg cried out, "This is terrible!"

"Not at all," Marjorie replied. "I think it's wonderful that he's found someone who wants to take care of him and love him."

"The minute the children saw that I wasn't unhappy," Marjorie says, "their attitude changed. If anything, their relationship with their father improved greatly."

"I wouldn't want people to think I allow my children to run wild," Marjorie adds. "They get plenty of guidance from me, and we frequently talk things over. But whatever I say to them is designed to help them think for themselves, to stand on their own feet. And they do a wonderful job of it."
